ON THE MARCH: The EDL protest in Luton

THE council leader has been urged to ditch her policy of stonewalling the English Defence League and Muslim extremists.

Conservative group leader Councillor Michael Garrett said a dialogue should be opened up between Luton Borough Council and the group as 'the trouble with the EDL is that they get frustrated because nobody speaks to them'.

Dead man's identity theft lands pair with jail terms

BY JULIA SUTTON

TWO Nigerian men have been jailed following an elaborate scam to steal the identity of a dead British man.

Finest Ifeanyi Arojie, 43, of Old Bedford Road, Luton, illegally entered the UK in 2005. The following year he obtained a copy of the birth certificate of a British man, James Samuel Walters, who died in New York in 1989.

In 2007 Arojie used the birth certificate to obtain a British passport in Mr Walters' identity, stating that he had lost his previous passport. There was no record of Mr Walters' death because it occurred outside the UK.

Arojie then used his fake British identity to gain employment as a forklift driver in Dunstable in July 2008. In April 2009 Arojie sponsored the entry to the UK of a man claiming to be his 16-year-old son and calling himself Bright Walters. The pair lived at Old Bedford Road, and the scam started to unravel in December 2011 when officers from the UK Border Agency (UKBA) interviewed a woman who claimed that she had been approached about taking part in a sham marriage by an African man using the name James Samuel Walters. Officers discovered Walters was in Nigeria attempting to obtain visas for two children to reside in the

As a result of this investigation, both of these visas were refused. On December 16, 2011, Arojie, who was travelling using the Walters passport, was stopped by UKBA officers as he arrived at Heathrow Airport. On January 11, 2012 Bright Walters was arrested at his home address, where officers also found his British passport.

Bright Walters was charged with obtaining leave to enter or remain in the UK by deception and possession of a false identity document and remanded in custody.

Arojie was charged with seven offences including fraud and conspiracy to facilitate a breach of the UK's immigration laws.

Officers continued to investigate the scam and, following enquiries with UKBA officers in Nigeria, became convinced that Bright Walters' real identity was Goodness Iroro Sokoh and that his true age was 24. Walters disputes this.

Arojie and Walters were convicted on June 1 following a week-long trial at Luton Crown Court. On Friday Arojie was sentenced to two years and eight months while Walters was jailed for 12 months.

A 31-year-old woman who was charged with fraud, possession of a false identity document, facilitating entry of illegal entrants to the UK and obtaining leave to enter or remain in the UK by deception was acquitted at the end of the trial.

The UKBA will work to deport the fraudsters after they have served their sentences.

Ian Williams, from the UK Border Agency, said: "Finest Arojie coldly took on the identity of a deceased British citizen to live and work illegally in the UK and to illicitly bring another man into the country.

"His callous crime showed no respect to the late Mr Walters or his family. It was a cruel act motivated by pure self-interest and I am pleased that we have been able to bring him

Prosecutor David Lee said the first offence was committed on Valentine's Day last year, when a care worker went shopping at Tesco in Dunstable Road, Luton. She used her card, then drove home, where she arrived at a farm gate. A man came up to her driver's window with a map, asking if she could show him where

Detective Sergeant Sebastian Greschner, from the South Bedfordshire Serious Crime Team, said: "Hutup and Batan caused a huge amount of upset and stress to some very vulnerable victims and I am very pleased that the judge has noted the seriousness of these crimes and sent down a six-year sentence to the pair."

Both Hutup and Batan pleaded guilty to conspiracy to steal, con-spiracy to burgle and conspiracy to defraud. They also pleaded guilty to a single charge of robbery Judge Foster said they would automatically be deported at the

Hosepipe ban gets lifted in some areas

BY LAUREN ARCHELL

LUTON and Dunstable remain under a hosepipe ban - while Toddington and Barton-le-Clay have had theirs lifted.

Despite recent heavy rainfall, residents of Luton and Dunstable, who are supplied by Veolia Water, still have to comply with regulations which mean they cannot use their hosepipes.

This means the £300,000 fountain in St George's Square (pictured) will remain turned off.

Veolia spokesman Mike Pocock said: "Unfortunately at present, we will not be relaxing the temporary use ban further, as we need to conserve our supply of water to prepare for the possibility of a third dry autumn and winter.

"Following the unusually dry weather we have experienced over the 24-month period prior to April this year, we will need prolonged and substantial rainfall over a longer period to recharge our aquifers and to move us out of a drought situation."

Villages including Toddington and Barton-le-Clay, which are sup-plied by Anglian Water, are now able to use their hosepipes after the ban was lifted on Thursday. Anglian spokesman Paul Anglian spokesman Paul Valleley said: "When we introduced the ban on April 5, we had just been through the driest year on record and gone two winters without the rainfall needed to recharge reservoirs and aquifers.

"Almost from the moment we announced the ban it started raining and April turned out to be the wettest in our 113-year records.

"There's no way we could have predicted it, but in some places we had three times the average rainfall in April. Crucially, it fell just within the traditional recharge' season - the time of the year when there is less competi-tion for water from the environment, and much of what falls ends up in reservoirs and aquifers.

Love Luton Festival 'will be a success'

A COUNCIL boss has said that he is confident that the Love Luton 2012 Festival will be a 'massive success' despite ticket prices for the event being slashed.

Council chief executive Trevor Holden (pictured) said: "We did carry out market research nationally and locally prior to setting the ticket prices, but as we've been out speaking to fami-lies we've been told they were too expensive.

We cannot publish details of ticket sales or numbers as this is in direct breach of the confidentially clause within the artists' contracts, but from what I'm hearing the response to this move is positive, and will lead to an even better festival, which I'm sure will be a massive success."

Cops: 'Organised gang' stole from hotel rooms

BY LAUREN ARCHELL

lauren.archell@lutonsonsunday.co.ul

ROBBERS who sneaked into hotel rooms and stole bank cards before withdrawing cash from victims' accounts are still being hunted by police - four months after the thefts.

Police believe robberies at Icon Hotel in Stuart Street, Luton, (pictured) are connected with crimes being committed by an organised gang in the West Midlands.

On February 9, three different rooms were broken into by someone who stole bank cards and other forms of identification from the victims.

The following day, the victims received phone calls from someone claiming to be from their bank alerting them to suspicious activity on their cards.

The person on the phone managed to ask 'security questions' before trying to persuade the victim to hand over their pin and security numbers.

Once successful, large amounts of cash were withdrawn from the accounts before the cards were cancelled.

Detective Constable Mike Robinson said: "These offences appear to have been carried out by a well organised gang who preyed on unsuspecting victims who were just passing through Luton.

"Their ruse was convincing enough for security numbers to be handed over and large amounts of cash were stolen before the victim was able to do anything.

"We have been working with our colleagues in the Midlands to try and identify these criminals who were withdrawing cash in Wolverhampton and Coventry but I would like to hear from anyone else who may have been a victim of these robberies.

"I'd also like to hear from anyone else who was staying at the hotel back in February and may have witnessed anything suspicious – even the smallest piece of information could be useful."

Have your say on plans for 11,000 new homes

BY LUI STRACCIA

lui.straccia@lutononsunday.co.uk

NORTH of Luton and north Houghton Regis have been earmarked as potential locations for a total of 11,000 new homes.

Councillors plumped for the areas as part of a wider proposal to develop areas of the Central Bedfordshire district.

It involves 4,000 homes north of Luton and 7,000 in north Houghton Regis, but not the controversial 500 for Barton-le-Clay proposed three weeks ago.

A seven-week public consultation on the overall plan, called the Development Strategy, will be launched on Wednesday.

Central Beds estimates it needs to build almost 29,000 new homes in the next 20 years. More than half have already been planned for through existing planning permissions and allocations.

The other potential half were decided on at a sustainable communities overview and scrutiny committee meeting on Monday, when councillors also voted to include proposals to build 2,500 homes east of Leighton-Linslade, 500 homes south of the Wixams development south of Bedford, and a Sundon Rail Freight Interchange facility.

Councillor Ian Shingler, who represents Barton-le-Clay on Central Beds, is planning to organise a village-wide referendum asking residents if they support or oppose DLP Consulting Group's 500-home plan for land north of Higham

Road, even though it is not part of the plan, in case it is ever reconsidered by the council.

He said: "Around 100 people attended the Barton-le-Clay Parish Council meeting on Monday evening, when this issue was on the agenda, and I think they were reassured because Central Beds is not proceeding with it as a preferred site.

"I spoke in favour of it not being included as it is not suitable."

The overall strategy can be viewed on the council's website at www.centralbedfordshire.gov.uk/strategic-planning

Common courtesy calls

SIR - I am grateful to your correspondent, Robin Kedge (Letters, June 10), for pointing out that traffic lights have been switched off at the junction of Dunstable Road and Chaul End.

How much better off we could all be without traffic lights. A few days ago the lights at Poynters Road and Leagrave High Street were off. Did it cause a prob-lem for drivers? No. Because common sense prevailed.

I had been writing letters to officials at Luton Borough Council for years before they got around to removing the street cluttering traffic lights at Dunstable Road and Francis Štreet. That junction works without lights because drivers can filter through, expressing common courtesy to one another, to take Imagine common courtesy breaking out in the rest of Bury Park if the lights disappeared overnight. None of that sitting in fumes, tapping the steering wheel impatiently. Less of that shopping in a highly toxic environment.

Imagine common courtesy breaking out in Houghton Road, Houghton Regis, as drivers carefully negotiate junctions in the knowledge that without traffic lights, things just work, and they spend less time sitting in traffic jams waiting for green.

'Financial madness'

SIR - Labour-run Luton Borough Council has caught the Greek debt

Who would believe that while telling us they are cutting expenditure and jobs over the last two years, they have increased borrowing from £172.2 million to £293.3 million?

Illinon: It is mind boggling. Who pays for this? You do. If they are paying an average interest rate of four per cent, that is an incredible amount of interest payment per year of about £12 million.

To reduce the debt back to £172 million capital payments would be just under £6 million per year for 20 years. Labour's financial madness strikes again.

John Young Chairman of Luton Conservative Association

Kids learning languages

SIR - So now it's going to be compulsory for primary school kids to learn a foreign language.

They're not even teaching them to read, write or spell English - their own language.
Why don't we teach foreigners to learn English? But no, we live in a politically correct society, that's gone mad.

Bracklesham Gardens, Luton

Let's show the love

SIR - It is often said that Britain is a nation of animal 'lovers' and yet reality does not bear this out.

Yes, we own animals, we use them, we exploit them, we eat

Can our area be kept more clean and tidy?

SIR - It is no exaggeration to say that general cleanliness in the Biscot Mill ward leaves much to

The area around the Co-operative store, Moor Path and its neighbouring streets is filthy and untidy with unpleasant graffiti. Looking over to the other side of the ward there are broken store trolleys, old mattresses and them but does any of that add up to love? Sanctuaries are filled to the gunnels with horses, cats, dogs, small mammals, birds and reptiles - all bought and 'loved' until the novelty wore off. Investigations by groups like Animal Aid consistently find appalling conditions on farms and routine illegal abuse inside UK slaughterhouses.

We still send live animals by sea to be reared and killed in other countries - this government has just agreed to send thousands of pigs to China where there are no welfare laws to protect them.

We still permit the breeding of millions of pheasants from inside battery-style cages merely so they can be shot from the sky for pleasure.

We cull any animal or bird perceived to be a nuisance and there is still support, albeit diminishing, for events that routinely kill animals, most notably the Grand National.

To truly be a nation of animal lovers, all of this should be #### addressed.

Memorabilia needed

SIR -We are launching an appeal to recover important pieces of motoring memorabilia related to BSM driving school.

BSM, founded in 1910, has a rich history and a unique place in the heart of the UK's motoring story.

Unfortunately over the years many branded items from BSM's history have left the company's

It is believed these items include original BSM 'L' plates and driving simulators from the early 1900s, as well as old training manuals, documents and photographs.

Since BSM was acquired, just over a year ago now, we have worked hard to grow the brand.

We're now looking into the heritage of BSM as it's an important part of the business and the history of the brand, so we'd like to try to recover its historic memorabilia.

Our recent research has uncovered a number of objects including an original certificate of motoring competence from 1917 as well as a 1935 driving manual.

But from our photo archive we know that there are a great deal more BSM related historic artefacts and we would love to at least know where they are. If any readers can help with our appeal please email details to amnesty@bsm.co.uk

Meningitis awareness

SIR - In November 2009 my Dad, aged 72, came close to losing his broken chairs lying on the road corners. Jubilee weekend came and went. Our rubbish collection is on Thursdays, but when there is a Bank Holiday is it moved to Fridays. This time there were two Bank Holidays together.

I and many others in the area did not push out our rubbish on Thursday, believing it would be collected on Friday. Thus our life to meningococcal meningitis the deadliest form of the disease.

With Father's Day in mind today, I wanted to share my story - albeit a snapshot - to help raise awareness of the signs and symptoms of meningitis and to highlight the support that's available to people. just like my Dad, living with the impact of the disease today.

Fantastic father to three girls, doting grandfather to seven grandchildren, my Dad was an active man.

He still worked and was due to go to Ghana to do voluntary work, building a school and teaching English. Just days before he fell ill, he had single-handedly looked after my three children, making it almost impossible to believe what was about to happen to him.

Dad was found 'deeply unconscious' at home in bed. In hospital the following day, a lumber puncture diagnosed meningococcal meningitis. He was in a coma and one week later pronounced brain dead. We agreed to the hospital turning off his life support machine.

On my final farewell, I saw my dad make eye contact with me and I persuaded the doctors to delay switching the machines off.

More than two years on and a long road to recovery, thankfully, dad is still with us. He suffers from after-effects including brain injury, deafness in one ear and problems with balance, making it less easy to

With the support of the Meningitis Trust, a charity that supports people living with the after-effects of the disease, I never gave up hope - even though it's been a battle against the odds to improve his health.

Before Dad fell ill, I believed that meningitis only occurred in babies, adolescents and students - not men of my Dad's age. It was only when I made contact with the Trust that I discovered that the over-55s were one of the most 'at risk' age groups for contracting the disease.

The Trust is the only organisation in the UK focused on supporting people after meningitis. Every year it helps around 20,000 people through its range of free professional support services, including working in the community to provide the local level support that people like my Dad need - it recently funded an iPad for him through its unique Financial Grant service.
This Father's Day I am urging everyone to find out more about the signs and symptoms of meningitis by visiting www.meningitistrust.org or calling its free 24-hour helpline on 0808 8010 388.

Karen Morgan Meningitis Trust household rubbish did not get collected.

I rang the council who said that they had sent a leaflet about this at the start of the year, they could not offer any help, and I should take the rubbish to the tip myself.

What a golden level of service to SIR - The announcement of a marginal fall in poverty amongst children and working-age adults is no cause for celebration.

Poverty 'no surprise'

The fact is, 88 per cent of the planned spending cuts have yet to happen.

These savings, as has been shown by extensive research, will be paid for by the poor, in lost tax credits, cuts to help, such as Housing Benefit, which allows thousands of hard-working families to put food on the table and the diluting of key services, such as Surestart.

Couple this with rising inflation (fuel bills have gone up by more than 100 per cent in the last ten years, compared to a 12 per cent increase in the minimum wage), reduced working hours and frozen wages and we have ourselves a perfect storm.

On current trends, Oxfam predicts that by 2035 inequality will reach levels not seen since Victorian times.

There needs to be a greater emphasis on taxation versus spending cuts to tackle the deficit: Last year, the earnings of FTSE 100 executives went up by 49 per cent, while the annual pay of waiters and waitresses fell by 11 per cent and those of cleaning staff by 3.4 per

The average director at Britain's top 100 companies now earns 145 times more than their average

It is unjust to introduce measures targeted at the poorest, especially since they are the least culpable for the financial pressures the country

It also does well to remember that these issues are not about someone else: we are talking about hardworking families like our own.

Individuals who are often working two jobs just to make ends meet. At present six in every ten of the 7.8 million working-age adults in poverty are from working house-

The result is that many poor people in work need state subsidies to get by.

This is starkly demonstrated by the fact that over 80 per cent of people in receipt of Housing Benefit are in work, a fact strangely airbrushed by government. Rob Tolan

Support for entrepreneurs

AN £82.5 million studentloan style initiative for young entrepreneurs has been branded 'fantastic'.

Central Bedfordshire Councillor Nigel Young (pictured) has praised the Government scheme, which offers loans of up to £2,500 available through The Princes Trust.

The project is open to 18-24 years olds who are planning to start up a business enterprise, and has helped many Central Beds entrepreneurs already.

Applicants will receive a start-up tool kit with business support and mentoring with more than £500 worth of offers on products, from business cards to websites, netbooks and work suits.

Extra business support is provided by the council which is committed to helping businesses survive through the early stages of their development and enabling them to become successful through the council's Business Timebank, which offers two hours of free time to talk through business ideas, issues or strategy with a range of business service providers Cllr Young said: "This is a fantastic start for young people to realise their potential and provides a first step on the business ladder.

"We are keen to invest in our local talent and would encourage people to get in touch about Government StartUp loans and Business Timebank support from the council."

Precious rings stolen

BY LAUREN ARCHELL

A WIDOWER is distraught after the wedding and engagement rings belonging to a late wife were stolen in a burglary.

Thieves broke in through the back of a house close to Ardley Hill Academy in Lowther Road, Dunstable, and stole men's and women's jewellery as well as a black leather 'Bagley' wal-let which contained bank cards and cash. One of the items is a distinctive gold ring which has a gold sunflower on it. Other items include wedding rings, an engagement ring, an eternity ring and a white gold necklace with a gold ingot pendant containing Egyptian symbols.

The jewellery stolen during the raid, which happened between 2.30-3.30pm on Monday while the victim was out of the house, is of particular sentimental value to the man as it belonged to his wife who died ten years ago.

PC Jenny Buckley who is investigating the burglary, said: "There is, of course, monetary value to the goods taken but the sentimental value that these items hold to the victim are absolutely priceless and we want to reunite him with them as soon as possible.

"We would really like to hear from anyone who was in the area at the time or anyone else who may have information however small or insignificant they think it is – that could help us.

"Don't dismiss your information as unimportant – even tiny details which don't seem relevant now might become useful later on in the investigation."

If you have information relating to this incident, contact PC Buckley, in confidence, on the non-emergency number 101.

Anyway what they said was very interesting. They have no desire to leave the EU and some said they would sooner leave Greece and become an independent island again but still in the Union.

There is a belief that the 'suits' in mainland Greece have received billions of Euros which have been spent on worthless projects that have lined the pockets of these very same 'suits'.

And they have been paid the money in a way that means they don't even pay tax on it. Last year I was in Sicily and the view was much the same there, of northern Italians creaming

For Cretans they feel, or at least most of those I spoke with feel, that they had gained little but cost and rules and regulations from the EU and that all the benefits had gone to mainland Greece and Greeks. Now there are no benefits, however, they will be expected to take more of the pain, something Cretans are used to.

Indeed 'Greece-EU' as it might be called, appear as just another invader in a long line of conquerors who have taken a lot more from Crete than they have given.

ALKING of rules and regulations, we in Britain have been inundated in recent years by 'ealth & safety. The blame for this is often laid at the door of the EU, with governments saying that they do not want to do it but have no choice.

It was interesting to note in Crete that drivers did not wear seat belts, while smoking in their cars and talking on their mobile phones. Those on motorbikes and scooters did not wear crash helmets, there were no hard hats worn on building sites, or warning cones into the road.

At our hotel's swimming pool there were no lifeguards nor even markers to show the varying depths and people smoked in the local restaurants and bars.

I am not suggesting all these 'ealth and safety rules are a bad idea; simply that either they were not imposed by the EU, or, if they were, no-one else takes any notice of them.

So our governments are either dishonest or wimps. You takes your choice...

Work being done to aid 'troubled' families

BY LAUREN ARCHELL

THE Government's 'Troubled Families' Unit has estimated that Luton has around 525 families that fall into their definition of 'troubled'.

Luton Borough Council is aiming to put in place a new programme which will such families turn their lives around.

A 'troubled family' is one where there is an adult on out of work benefits, children not attending school and family members involved in crime or anti-social funded initiative aims to move these families from crisis to stability through co-ordinated support from a range of professionals.

The council has been given 40 per cent of the costs of intervention measures on a payment by results arrangement over the next three years, and £100,000 per year to fund strategic co-ordination and administration of the programme.

"In addition to those families meeting the 'troubled' criteria to be included in the programme, we will also be targeting families who have a child on the edge of care, and where there are frequent police call outs, arrests or with adults with proven offences in the past year.

However advances in technology mean that a piece of equip-ment has been created which sits in a mug and beeps and as the liquid being poured into it nears the brim.

This is just one example of a living aid that could make life easier for blind or partially-sighted people. But not everyone knows what services and high tech gadgets are available to them - and that is where Sight Concern Bedfordshire aims to

With a brand new office in Union Street and grand opening later this month, the charity is hoping to make residents in the town aware of the work it does and the facilities it can provide.

While the charity want to make the public aware about the support and advice they can offer, they also want everyone to know about the leisure activities and group exercise classes they facilitate, including pilates.

Advertorial

This season's must have

In December 2012 new European legislation will mean that women will pay more for insurance - such as car insurance and more importantly life cover.

A message for her!

For life cover, this will result in a premium increase of up to 15%*. That makes it this season's must have for women.

Not really fair considering women are better drivers and live longer!!

Whether you are single or married, have a career or have made home and family your life's work – you need to protect yourself, your family and your real worth.

A message for him!

It's not a nice thought but if your partner/wife died suddenly could you cope financially and maintain your family's current lifestyle? The latest 'value of a parent' research shows it could cost £30,000 a year to pay someone to replace a Mum's domestic work.

Life cover premiums for women will shortly increase by up to 15%*. That makes it this season's must have for women.

Life cover can help provide peace of mind and can be done for less than you might think. A £200,000 life cover policy could cost as little as £11.71 a month. At this price you can still have all the other 'must haves' of the season....whatever they might be.

Ryan Radford, Managing Director at Zebra Money Centre, says "We are in the process of writing to all our clients advising them of the impending changes and recommending that they seriously consider reviewing their current protection situation.

If you are considering reviewing your own protection and/or looking to take out life cover then I would urge you to do it now. If you delay you could end up paying more in the future."

* HMRC Consultation Document, Dec 2011: EU Gender Directive. *Female, age 35 next birthday, non smoker, no medical issues, £200,000 lump sum life cover over 25 years. Correct as at 2/4/12. Please contact us and ask for a personalised illustration.

Uni director to look at 'evil' criminals

BY LAUREN ARCHELL

lauren.archell@lutononsunday.co.uk

THE co-director of the National Centre for Cyberstalking Research (NCCR) at the University of Bedfordshire will appear on a TV show examining why people commit horrendous crimes and whether they can be considered 'evil.'

Dr Emma Short (pictured) will

Dr Emma Short (pictured) will appear in three episodes of the TV show Evil Up Close on the Crime & Investigation Network, airing on June 26 and July 3, both at 9pm, with another episode airing later in September.

In the series, she sheds light on the cases involving stalker William Jordan and Beverly Allitt, a nurse who murdered four children while working at a hospital in Lincolnshire.

Dr Short said: "It was challenging to look at the psychology around these crimes and discuss the theories that have been put forward to try and explain such terrible actions.

"These were extraordinary cases that received a lot of attention and horrified the public at the time.

"Behind that media interest it is most important to remember that these were real events that had an unimaginable effect on the families who lost loved ones as a result of the actions of these individuals.

"They continue to live with the devastation of that."

The Wedding Dress

ever in the history of fashion. has any one garment been so discussed, analysed and agonised over as the wedding dress.

Whether you want to be the perfect princess, gorgeously glamorous or vampishly vintage, what you wear on your big day must make you look - and feel - fabulous!

But what style do you favour? Should you go for a traditional floor-sweeper with a train or, if you are shorter in stature, an ankle-length dress that keeps the formality of the gown without drowning you?

If a full-length dress doesn't appeal or you're planning on a less formal occasion there are some lovely shorter styles on the market.

Then there is the colour. Even white comes in numerous shades so if a traditional white gown is your dream outfit search out the right white for your skintone. If your heart isn't set on the traditional virginal look there are shades of oyster, soft blush and cream that may be more flattering to your complexion.

So simple, classic or something a little more on trend? When it comes to dress design in 2012, it's all about expressing your personality through the little details that make up your own

Ruffles, trims and beading add a feminine touch to the simple shapes that have been popular for the past few years. And not only are floral motifs growing in popularity but, since the wedding of Wills and Kate, lace has suddenly exploded onto the scene

Whether as an accent such as detailing on the bodice, used across the whole dress, as a shrug or, as on Kate's Sarah Burton-designed dress, across the shoulders and as the sleeves, lace is just the most feminine fabric and can be teamed with other accessories such as those for the hair, continuing the vintage trend through 2012 and bevond

To have and to hold... The Ultimate Wedding Guide

Traditions, superstitions & symbols

f you heeded all the warnings that lurk behind the traditions and symbols surrounding weddings you'd probably end up never, ever getting married.

So the best thing is to ignore the whole lot of them and just get on and do the deed the way you want.

But if, in an idle moment, you are curious as to where some of the customs came from, here are a few colourful examples of wedding traditions – both fact and fiction. PROBABLY the most universally accepted mantra that has been handed down for generations is the rhyme:

Planning for that Special Day?

Every Bride wants to look and feel amazing!

'Something old, something new Something borrowed, something blue' But there is a final line that tends to be forgotten these days:

'And a silver sixpence in your/her shoe'

This well-known ditty dates back to Victorian times although some of the customs referred to are much older.

'Something old' represents the links with the bride's family and old friends.

Traditionally this was an old garter which was given to the bride by a happily married woman in the hope that her marital happiness would rub off on the new bride but it is more often now a piece of family jewellery or, occasionally, the wedding dress worn by the bride's mother or grandmother.

'Something new' symbolises good fortune and success for the newlyweds' future and the wedding dress itself is frequently chosen as the new item. 'Something borrowed' is to remind the bride that friends and family will be there should she need their help. The borrowed object could be a lace handkerchief or gloves or a valued item of jewellery (Kate Middleton borrowed the Queen's Cartier 'Halo' tiara on her big day). To ensure good luck, the bride must return the item after the wedding.

The custom of the bride wearing 'something blue' dates back to Biblical times. In ancient Israel, the colour blue symbolized fidelity and the bride often wore a blue ribbon in her hair representing modesty and purity.

To have and to hold... The Ultimate Wedding Guide

Wedding planners

ut what exactly does a wedding planner do? And more to the point, do I need one?

In all honesty, no. People have been organising their own wedding celebrations – with the help of friends and family – since the first bride and groom said 'i do'.

But while of course it's possible to do it all yourself there's lots of good reasons for getting help with planning what could well be the most important and indeed expensive day of your life so far

So why shell out more on something you don't strictly need? Well, first and foremost it could actually save you money in the long run.

Most wedding planners charge a flat fee rather than accepting commission from vendors. This ensures that they are working for you and not for the suppliers. That way, you know from the start what hiring a wedding planner will cost and they may even be in a position to negotiate discounts from the suppliers. Wedding planners are NOT only for those couples with enormous funds behind them. Most couples are on a restricted budget and want to do things right. A wedding planner will help you set a realistic wedding budget, based on how much you have to spend. But it's not all about money. A wedding planner will save you time too.

The average bride spends 250 hours organising her wedding - that's equal to 6 full-time working weeks! Not having the time to plan all the minute details and being unsure where to start looking for what you need can be stressful. A wedding planner knows all about wedding etiquette, will handle last minute emergencies and draw up contracts. They have worked closely with professional suppliers and will recommend the best people for your special day and they can come up with creative solutions to problems you may have not even anticipated.

So ask yourself this:

Do I have unlimited time to plan my wedding

Am I able to visit suppliers during office hours?

Am I comfortable negotiating contracts with caterers, photographers, car hires, florists, stationers, cake makers, etc.?

Am I prepared to deal with disagreements about the details?

Can I deal with last minute problems that may come up on the day of the wedding?

If the answer to any of those are 'no' then it's worth thinking about bringing in a wedding planner.

But before you shake hands on the agreement consider these points:

Will this person push me into decisions I don't want/can't afford, or will they commit to my budget?

Do they have a good rapport with the best suppliers (venues, caterers, photographers, etc.) in the area? Are they in a position to negotiate discounts on my behalf?

Will they be there the day of the wedding, overseeing the entire event from supervising suppliers to troubleshooting emergencies?

Does this co-coordinator seem excited about my special day, able to make educated decisions, calm under pressure?

Does this wedding planner have insurance, both Personal Liability and Professional Indemnity?

Your wedding planner should be a creative partner who will offer advice and opinions and in addition look after all the practical arrangements. They will help you prioritise, plan ahead, consider risks.

They'll always be one step ahead - but right behind you

Chart-topping hits with Motown sound

MUSIC

THE SOUNDS OF THE

The Gordon Craig Theatre, Stevenage

MUSIC royalty takes to the Gordon Craig stage as The Sounds of The Supremes perform some of the greatest Motown classics ever released.

The Supremes' music personified the Motown Sound that influenced a generation, which has shown itself to be one of the most definitive and enduring contributions to American Pop music history

Since 1989 The Sounds of the Supremes, led by Kaaren Ragland, a former member of original Supreme Mary Wilson's 70s/80s group, have achieved a remarkable degree of worldwide success.

London's What's On described their incomparable energy packed show featuring more than 20 hit songs as 'a non-stop bravura performance of immense vitality' recreating 'perfectly the frenetic style and sound of the original line-up'.

Kathy Merrick and Althea Burkhalter join Kaaren on stage and these three American women possess a wealth of experience in recording, television, cabaret, theatre and musicals, and deliver a fantastic vocal blend on re-worked Motown classics, standards, contemporary songs, stylish choreography and unrivalled glamour.

The sound of The Supremes' music lives on today with The Sounds of the Supremes performing chart topping hits such as You Keep Me Hanging On, Stop In The Name Of Love, You Can't Hurry Love and Baby Love, which are certain to have you up on your feet celebrating what is truly the best of Motown

For tickets, which cost £19, contact the box office on 01438 363200 or visit www.gordon-craig.co.uk

A Specialist Teacher of English

MPS + £3,865 SEN point + R&R at 4% of salary Required for a September 2012 start

The Orchard Centre is a highly successful Key Stage 4 Pupil Referral Unit catering for up to 24 students permanently excluded from Luton High Schools. Graded "good with many outstanding features" (2011), the Centre is part of a continuum of provision across the town for students with social, emotional and behavioural difficulties. The Centre offers students an opportunity to address the issues that have resulted in their exclusion, obtain a range of GCSE and equivalent qualifications and to progress to further education, training or employment.

You will be required to teach English across the whole range of ability up to GCSE Level. Experience of, or an interest in, developing a media studies strand within the Centre would be welcome. In addition, all staff work as part of a pastoral system and assist with the afternoon activity and personal development programmes. Initially the post is KS4 only but exciting plans are in place for the creation of central Learning Support Hub to open in January 2013. It is likely that teaching across KS3 and 4 will be a requirement at this time, as will work with both long stay and short stay students.

This is an opportunity to join an outstanding team at an exciting time in the evolution of Luton's behaviour support provision and to gain from and contribute to a personally and professionally rewarding experience.

Further information about the Centre can be found on the website at www.orchardcentre.org.uk

Visits are actively encouraged and to arrange this or for an informal conversation with the Head, please contact the school office between 9.00am and 3.00pm.

Apply now online at www.luton.gov.uk/jobs if you experience problems applying online, please call (01582) 546621 during office hours. Closing date: 2 July 2012. Ref: 12/0297

The Council is committed to safeguarding and promoting the welfare of children, young people and vulnerable adults and expects all staff to share this commitment.

We value equality because quality services need the best people - from the whole community.

Lacey new deal shows Hatters' value in youth

FOOTBALL

SECURING the signatures of Alex Lacey and JJ O'Donnell have been just as important as signing new players, Luton manager Paul Buckle has said.

Defender Lacey, 19, confirmed a two-year deal on Thursday to add to the three-year contract negned by three-year contract penned by O'Donnell before the end of last season.

Buckle said: "Sometimes you get car-ried away with trying to sign players that are ready made for the team, which is important as well, but getting those is important as wen, but getting those two signed are just as valuable as any other signings. I'm delighted.

"They've both mustered a good reputation for themselves in the football world. A lot of people I speak to and clubs that are sniffing around, know of them

"It's important we safeguard ourselves. Gary [Sweet] has been good in recognising that."

When Buckle took over at Kenilworth Road in March he quickly ended the development duo's loan spells away from the club to bring them back into the fold, and he believes the move has paid dividends.

He said: "When you are developing them, with the ages they're at, some-times you can overcook it by leaving them out on loan too long.

"When I came to the club, they would have been looking from the outside at a new manager and it surprised them that I called them back.

"All the players are important to me. I got a chance to look at them and they didn't let me down and I think the training sessions have done them good.

"It shows I've got a big interest in the youth policy, the younger pros and I'm glad they've both signed."

And the Town boss admitted that the upcoming pre-season programme, which begins in earnest on July 2, will be vital for the likes of Lacey, who has made seven first team appearances since his debut against Welling United in the FA

Trophy two year's ago.

Buckle said: "We know his potential and the key now is to keep working him hard on the training ground and try to develop him so he can push for a first

Alex Lacey penned a two-year deal on Thursday and, while he is hopeful that others will follow the teenager's lead, the boss admits that some of the younger players are dithering. "Dan Walker and Lewis Kidd haven't signed but I'm not going to mess around," he said.

"Of course players need some time to think, but these young ones are at a good club with a very good set-up and I don't want agents getting in the way of them. "I don't think that's fair.

"A younger player needs to con-centrate on his football, his career and give himself every chance by being on the training field and in the gym for as many hours as possible, rather than worrying about an agent, with all due respect.

Walker is ummming and ahhhing but I'm not going to wait for ever, because there is a lot of other good, young talent out there. Walker's agent has text me to say he's gone on holiday and forgot his phone - no-one goes on holiday without their phone. It's very easy for a younger player to tuck in behind an agent or representative and I don't want that.

"I've been talking to a player, whom I can't name because I haven't got him yet, and I really want to take him.

"I've got nothing against agents, don't get me wrong, but it's really nice to see the whites of the players' eyes.

"The way JJ and Lacey conduct themselves is what I want and that's why they've got a chance.

"They've listened, Kidd is well on the way and I think Walker will, but at the minute I can't get too much from the agents - that's not quite for me.

Poku rejected deal over interest from other football clubs

OFFERS from other clubs saw Godfrey Poku snub a new deal to stay at Luton, Paul Buckle believes.

Negotiations had been taking place between the manager and his representative, former Hatters hero Kevin Nicholls - now a football agent - but they broke down.

A bid has also been tabled by another club which the Hatters rebuffed but Buckle believes the 21-year-old has agreed a deal elsinore, with rumours linking him to Conference rivals Mansfield.

The Luton boss said: "I've not spoken to Godders because he's been away on holiday for quite a while, but I've been speaking to Nico regarding it.

"I said to him, if Godders doesn't want to be at Luton then he's got to move on'.
"We offered him a deal that we thought was right but someone is obviously willing to pay him a lot more money, that's how I see this one.

"He turned it down because he's already got a deal somewhere else. This is what happens. When they're out of contract they line in all of this is that I want players who want to play for the club. This has served me well in the past.

"I know how much I want to be at the club and I want everybody to share that because I think that's how you can get success.

"I know money comes into it and there are other factors but you've got to remember the main thing, which is training hard every day and enjoying coming to work at Luton.

"I want to create that spirit and mentality and I'm quite black and white where that's concerned."

Buckle also revealed that, along with suitors after Poku's services, he's had to field calls from other clubs interested in his other players.

"I don't get worried," he said, adding: "Being manager of Luton Town is a nice place to be. "I'm not kamikaze but to win something and get out of, arguably the toughest league, you've got to have a good mentality.

"If people want to go sideways they can.

"The wins and knock-outs Dallas has had have been against standard journeyman," Earl said, adding: "He's been destroyed in his last two fights. His heart isn't great and if he gets hit and hurt he'll lose his arsenal.

"Tom has trained hard and we are just relishing it now."

Show promoter Eddie Hearn said: "For Tom Little – what a night for a 24-year-old with just three fights on his CV. He has nothing to lose and everything to gain and I'm sure he will come out all guns blazing."

Buckle won't lose sleep over Willmott snub

BY JAMES CUNLIFFE

james.cunliffe@lutononsunday.com

PAUL Buckle has brushed off Twitter comments from Robbie Willmott after a breakdown in contract negotiations, insisting Luton Town acted in the proper manner.

It was announced on Friday that deals for the 22-year-old and fellow midfielder Godfrey Poku had been rejected, paving the way for the pair to exit the club.

The former Cambridge winger then took to the social networking site with a series of tweets, including one in which he wrote: Its a sad day for me to be leaving but I wanted to stay and sort a contract as early as possible but to have no contact with anyone for just under a month was hard to take! [sic]

But Buckle explained that all the discussion were done through Willmott's agent, saying: "We couldn't get to a deal, it's as simple as that simple as that.

"All the players have got my phone number. His agent rang me to say that Robbie was going to move on, so I phoned Robbie and thanked him for his efforts while I was at the club.

"There was no problem but it's all about perceptions. It's the agents that normally ring you, not the player.

"When they move on, it's the player that says something about it and maybe causes a stir, whether they tweet or whatever they choose to do. There's certainly no stir where we're concerned. We've done it the right way, we're comfortable with the way we've done business."

Buckle confirmed that there were contracts on offer for both Willmott and Poku but neither displayed enough desire to commit to the club.

"That's it," he said, adding: "There's no point in beating around the bush. We need players that are really driven and want to be here and I felt that Robbie needed to be incentivised.

"Godfrey and Rob have moved on but it's not a major problem. I'm not going to lose sleep over it.

"If we were really highly successful over the last three years maybe it would be a problem, but we haven't been.

"I need every single player that is up for this challenge."

Curtis Osano and Keith Keane have also both left for pastures new in recent weeks and the Hatters boss admits he won't stand in the way of wantaway stars. "I don't fear losing players," said Buckle,

"I don't fear losing players," said Buckle, adding: "If they want to leave Luton and go sideways then go sideways, that's their prerogative.

GRAHAM Earl believes his undefeated heavyweight prospect, Tom Little, can be the surprise package in the latest edition of Prizefighter at York Hall on Wednesday.

Still only a three-fight novice in the paid ranks, the 24-year-old has been championed by Earl as one of the fastest heavyweights in the land
